MISSION

For 137 years, the New York Board of Rabbis has shaped the future of Jewish life in New York, educated rabbis and the public, and responded to the changing needs of the Jewish community. Today, the NYBR is the largest rabbinic inter-denominational body in the world. We believe it is imperative to be a moral voice regarding global concerns. We are a leading advocate on behalf of the people of Israel. Through our chaplaincy and family violence prevention programs, the NYBR works to create a more caring society. We are concerned about the welfare of the entire community, both Jewish and non-Jewish. We serve as a bridge of strength and promise between individual rabbis, the greater Jewish community and other faith communities. The NYBR works closely with other faith communities to promote increased understanding and pursue avenues of common cooperation.

The Mariano Rivera Foundation supports capital projects in New York and Panama, including the building of an elementary school and a church. In addition, the Foundation provides computer access and adult mentors to at risk youth. The Foundation also distributes scholarships to underprivileged children in the US and Panama. Through both his professional baseball career and his philanthropic work, Mariano Rivera has been a role model for everyone.

The New York Board of Rabbis and the Mariano Rivera Foundation have a shared vision of building a stronger society through community advocacy.

Larry Fishelson

Co-Founder and COO, Dynalink Communications

Mr. Fishelson has been in the telecommunications industry for 23 years. Starting out in 1995 fresh out of college, he hit the streets of Manhattan selling telecommunication services for MFS Intelenet to businesses. He then went on to XO Communications where he worked as an agent manager and worked his way up to become the Vice President of Agent Sales and was responsible for the entire US indirect sales of the company. In 2005 Mr. Fishelson decided to become an entrepreneur and co-founded Dynalink Communications with the vision that he can create a full service telecom company purchasing excess capacity from the major providers such as ATT and Verizon, Windstream, and many others. Dynalink's philosophy has always been "Large enough to service, Small enough to care". Dynalink has flourished over the last 13 years and has become a powerhouse in the telecom industry.

Mr. Fishelson is a technology expert, tech market analyst and successful entrepreneur. He is a highly sought after tech expert and industry leader in the US, and has been featured in Crain's NY Business, American Express Open, and has been a frequent guest contributor on the Fox Business Network, Fox News, CNN, CNBC, NBC, Bloomberg, and HLN.

Mr. Fishelson received a B.A. from Temple University in 1995 from the School of Communications. He lives in Manhattan with his wife and two sons. He is an avid golfer and all around sports enthusiast.

Alan Phillips

CEO, Phillips Holdings

Alan Phillips is the Chief Executive Officer of Phillips Holdings and is a leading restaurateur and real estate investor in New York City. He is a lifelong student of Judaism and has committed to strengthening Jewish education for the community. Mr. Phillips studies weekly with a study group and seeks to find greater meaning and understanding in Jewish sacred texts. His philanthropic interests are focused on supporting learning, inside and outside of the classroom, both at home and overseas. He strongly believes that Jewish identity must be predicated on the pursuit of knowledge. Reaching the youth must be a prioritized commitment for a strong Jewish future.
